responding to the oppression of addiction brings together the voices of over 40 academics and social work practitioners from across Canada to provide a diverse and multidimensional perspective to the study of addiction. This thoroughly updated edition features eight new chapters and streamlines the content of the previous editions with chapters condensed and combined to create a more accessible text. The fourth edition features new content on themes such as residential schools, prevention initiatives, special needs of different populations, policy perspectives framed within an anti-oppression standpoint, cognitive behavioral therapy, and the emerging topic of problem gambling. Returning chapters have been updated with contributors providing more in-depth examinations of trauma-informed approaches. The entire volume has a strengthened anti-oppressive framework on both an overarching and by chapter level. This celebrated and varied collection is an indispensable resource for upper-level students, graduate students, and practitioners working in the fields of social work, addictions studies, and the helping professions. Features thoroughly updated chapter-by-chapter content grounded in an anti-oppressive framework with deeper exploration of trauma-informed approaches, provides an authoritative analysis of the practices and policies that contribute to the construction of the meaning of addiction through a Canadian lens.

Great Jewish thinkers offer salient historical commentary on the roots of antisemitism and its contemporary resurgence from medieval accusations that Jews murder Christians for their blood to the far-right conspiracy theories animating present-day political discourse. It's clear that the belief that Jews are plotting against society never dies; it just adapts to suit the times. In eight illuminating essays from brilliant Jewish writers and thinkers, looking for an enemy offers an urgent, profound take on the experience of antisemitism and its historical context in order to present a nuanced, global understanding of antisemitism. Editor Jo Glanville solicited essays from writers across a wide spectrum of ages, political ideologies, and nationalities. American Rabbi Jill Jacobs and respected Israeli historian Tom Segev explore the thorny question of antisemitism in politics. British journalist Daniel Trilling investigates how antisemitism drives far-right extremism, while author Philip Spencer rethinks the forms that antisemitism takes on the left. Polish writer Mikolaj Grynberg reflects on a childhood shadowed by the trauma of the Holocaust. Journalist Natasha Lehrer and novelist Olga Grjasnowa explore the culture of antisemitism and the forces behind it in France and Germany. In her own contribution, Glanville searches for the historical roots of this dangerous hatred in moving, memoir-rich history and incisive political commentary. These essays navigate the complex differences in each country's relationship to its Jewish citizens and reveal the contemporary face of antisemitism. Eye-opening and evocative, Looking for an Enemy explores how an irrational belief can still flourish in a supposedly rational age.

in sustainable governance in hybrid organizations the author linne marie lauesen explores how businesses that have succeeded in conducting sustainable governance manage and govern their sustainable performance in other words how they manage to be economically socially and environmentally sustainable in this respect hybrid organizations that are formed as businesses with a mission to be sustainable and to provide services for society such as water companies are a good point of departure water companies are highly regulated whilst working primarily for the betterment of society and on behalf of generations to come for whom clean and plentiful water and the preservation of nature is a must linne marie has dug deep into these types of hybrid organizations in order to reveal which mechanisms of organizational governance for sustainability are at play and how these organizations manage to balance their triple bottom lines in order to survive financially socially and environmentally and make a business out of their conduct balancing these three bottom lines in a sustainable way is explained in a clear and accessible way and the juxtaposition between non profit and for profit water companies will show how this model can be transferred to other business spheres using the recent turn to ecology as a starting point hannah richter and elisa randazzo bring ecological thinking into contact with critical indigenous studies in which awareness of the necessity for sustainable relations between humans and non humans has long preceded western anthropocene discourse currently the drastic ecological changes labelled as the anthropocene not only increasingly shape the political awareness and the priorities of citizens and governments but also inform a large body of social scientific scholarship indigenous scholarship and practice in particular ecological adaptability is intrinsically related to power structures and political struggle hence indigenous understanding of anthropocene discourses are intertwined with discourses of colonialism and political contestation this book problematises the depoliticising character of western anthropocene discourses in relation to indigenous ecologies the authors reveal how the anti colonial struggles of indigenous communities and the unequal distribution of responsibilities for and suffering from ecological change are concealed and devalued in western discourses of the anthropocene
